Manage Content from iOS Devices: Simply and Securely

Box provides a secure, scalable content-sharing platform that both users and IT love and adopt. Now, Box for Good Technology empowers mobile teams on iPhones and iPads to work from anywhere without compromising IT protocol.

Mobilize Your Workforce

Mobile devices in the workplace are driving the need for mobile content management, which can increase productivity, enhance customer engagement, maximize collaboration and drive more effective business decision-making. Along with this newfound mobile productivity, though, comes a pressing new demand for mobile application management.

Box for Good Technology delivers, empowering you to:

Enable End Users

- Anywhere access: Securely view and share files anywhere, anytime, from an iPhone/iPad
- Unified content view: Keep desktop, browser and mobile content in sync
- Secure content across apps: Open a file from Box, edit in another application and save back to Box automatically for powerful productivity on the go.
- Cohesive collaboration: Centralize team projects with online workspaces
- BYOD support: Secure container separates personal and company data

Manage Content

- User management: Set permissions through a central admin console
- Security: Rely on Box's security, including SSL encryption and 99.9% uptime
- Visibility: Maintain insight into how content is accessed and shared

Secure Application Data

- Safeguard storage: FIPS-certified AES file encryption on all downloaded information
- App management: Set policy requirements over app usage and passwords
- App security: Prevent data loss, even from malicious consumer apps
- User management: Revoke access in real time and remotely wipe sensitive application data from devices
- Authentication Delegation: Users that are logged in with Good Dynamics do not need to re-authenticate with other applications.

Box for Good Technology and the New Business Use Case

New mobile devices and business technology are inspiring innovative ways for businesses to create, share and consume content. Box for Good Technology provides the application level security and data protection needed to support this mobile collaboration.

“ Our applied use of Box was truly the solution that allowed us to solidify the business case and to justify to corporate that the iPad was a device that would be used for business purposes. ”

Expedite Business with iOS Devices for Executives

Today, executive review and comment on content – anywhere, anytime, from any device – is a business necessity. Just ask Six Flags and Clear Channel, whose executives rely on Box to access the latest business content from their iOS devices, whether they're in New York or New Zealand. They love the fact that with Box they get a consistent content experience across all their access methods - desktop, mobile devices, and through enterprise applications.

“ I haven't taken my laptop with me since we started using Box. I run the entire company off my iPad. ”

Lance Locher

Founder and Senior Vice President,
Clear Channel

Enable Mobile Sales Teams with Critical – and Current – Content

It's a business fact: Remote sales teams are constantly in need of the very latest product and pricing information. With Box and iOS devices, out-of-date data is a thing of the past. Just ask Taylormade and Bank of New York, who empower their field sales teams with Box and iPads. Specifically, teams at the home office push accurate information to remote sales teams, who can then share and present this information to prospects from wherever they are. And with Box, the sales teams can share content with customers to collaborate on proposals, specs and contracts.

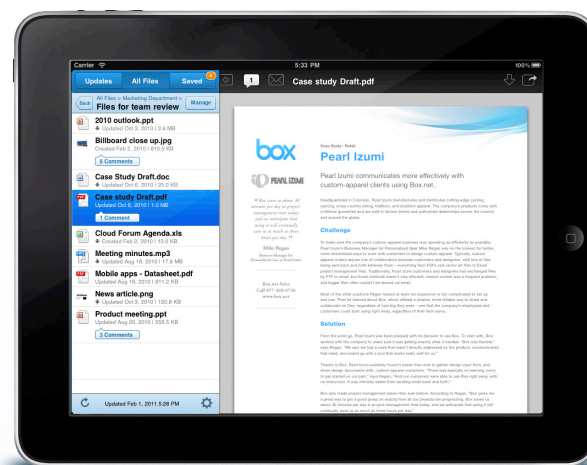

Turbocharge Field Engineers' Productivity

Waiting on paper reports or constantly changing blueprints can inhibit even the best field engineers from doing their jobs quickly and effectively. But with Box, the most current content can be sent to and from the field in seconds, dramatically increasing accuracy and decreasing turnaround time. Two companies that are doing just that: Dole – the world's largest producer and marketer of high-quality fresh fruits and vegetables – and Balfour Beatty, America's sixth largest construction firm. Box for Good Technology integrates with other Good Dynamics ISV applications that enable content creation, annotation, and redlining, allowing for efficient and secure collaboration on mobile devices.
